Aspen Medical Products Announces Matt Waidelich as New Vice President of Business Development and Strategy

Irvine, Calif. (Aug. 29, 2023) – Aspen Medical Products (Aspen), the industry leader in solutions for mobility and pain management, is pleased to announce that seasoned industry professional Matt Waidelich has joined the organization as Vice President of Business Development and Strategy.

Waidelich arrives at Aspen armed with a vast network of trusted relationships, poised to drive the organization’s ongoing growth and success. Having held senior executive positions, including President and CEO, in a variety of international companies, Waidelich seamlessly integrates into the Aspen leadership team and instantly brings his expertise to the table.

“We are beyond excited to have someone with the reputation, successes and respect that Matt has within our industry join the team,” said Jim Cloar, Aspen’s Chief Executive Officer. “With the new products, markets and acquisitions that Aspen has lined up, Matt’s ability to reach a broad spectrum of industry decision makers creates a perfect opportunity for both Matt and Aspen to achieve unprecedented success.”

Waidelich’s extensive leadership background also includes positions at Ottobock, Royce Medical and Össur, as well as serving as a consultant to a long list of prominent orthopedic companies.
